EENET wants to share inclusive education information in many different languages around the world....

...but we need your help!

Here's how you could help....

Volunteer to translate EENET's newsletters into your local language.

Volunteer to proofread translations or adapt them for your country.

Have a debate about the best ways to translate inclusive education terminology into you local language. Share your ideas with EENET.

Send us documents written in other languages, and provide us with a short summary in English.

Raise awareness of the need for more quality translations of inclusive education documents.

Ask your organisation to fund translations that can be used by EENET's readers.

What is EENET?

EENET is an inclusive education information-sharing network. We promote the inclusion of margnalised groups in education worldwide. We do this by helping everyone involved in education to share their ideas and experiences. The network is open to everyone, in every country of the world. Please join us!
